

SC junks Pasig bid to expropriate land of Bro. Eddie's JIL

By Arnold M. Macara

THE SUPREME COURT has ruled on the government's bid to expropriate the land of the late Brother Eddie JIL.

The court said the bid was invalid because the government failed to follow the proper legal procedure.

The court also said that the government failed to provide adequate compensation for the land.

The court's decision is a setback for the government's bid to expropriate the land.

WHAT STONEWALLING?

'Garci' hunt now global

By Nisha Dizon
and Lilia Salvarria

ACCUSED of stonewalling on the whereabouts of Virgilio Garcillano, the Department of Foreign Affairs launched yesterday a global hunt for the controversial former election commissioner.

"We sent diplomats today to our posts all over the world to obtain information on him because we don't know where he is," Foreign Affairs Undersecretary Franklin Ekdala said in a phone interview yesterday.

The DFA previously gave similar instructions to its embassies in Singapore and Malaysia after it was reported that Garcillano fled to either of these countries at the height of the "Hello, Garci" controversy.

It has also directed its consulate in New York City to see if Garcillano might be in New Jersey. He was also reported by the media to have flown to London.

All reports to DOJ

Last month, the DFA said the Singapore government had confirmed that Garcillano arrived in the city-state last July 16 but left the following day for an unknown destination.

Garcillano provided a national update when he disappeared from public view in June following allegations that he was the main Presidential Macapagal-Arroyo was talking to in the so-called "kibab, Ombi" tapes dealing with an alleged conspiracy to tamper with the results of the 2004 elections.

The other day, Carlos Rep. Gilbert Briones said he learned from diplomatic sources that Garcillano flew last month to Singapore using a bulk Air Marshal, and ordered the DFA of giving his office a statement when he asked for information.

The DFA has denied receiving any such information.

In a text message sent to reporters, DFA spokesperson Gilberto Anique said that the department "has forwarded all reports regarding Virgilio Garcillano Jr. to the Department of Justice."

"The DOJ is leading the investigation on Mr. Garcillano."

Will take blame if...

Anique added that "the DFA continues to monitor the whereabouts of Mr. Garcillano and will forward any new information to the DOJ."

Ekdala explained that the DOJ was the department tasked by Malacanang to investigate the Garcillano flight.

Immigration Commissioner Alipio Fernandez Jr. said he was willing to take the blame if it was proved that the bureau had covered up Garcillano's flight to Singapore.

"If it's established, I would accept responsibility," he said in a phone interview.

Fernandez said the BI had gone to great lengths to check its records but it had found none that would show that Garcillano had left the country.

"Garcillano was never cleared by immigration to leave the country. In the flight manifest of the Serbis Air flight, only the names of the pilot, co-pilot and mechanic were listed," he said.

23rd Week in Ordinary Time

1st Reading: COL 3:1-4:1

Gospel: LUKE 14:1-6

Lifting up his eyes to his disciples, Jesus said:

"Fortunate are you who are poor, the kingdom of God is yours.

"Fortunate are you who are hungry now, for you will be filled.

"Fortunate are you who weep now, for you will laugh.

"Fortunate are you when people hate you, when they reject you and insult you and abuse you among criminals, because of the Son of Man. Rejoice in this day and leap for joy, for a great reward is kept for you in heaven. Remember that is how the prophets of this people treated the prophets.

"But alas for you who have wealth, for you have been comforted now.

"Alas for you who are full, for you will go hungry.

"Alas for you who laugh now, for you will mourn and weep.

"Alas for you when people speak well of you, for that is how the prophets of this people treated the false prophets."

Commentary:

Jesus begins the more famous parable of the man in Luke's gospel on the point of rebelling his eyes to his disciples, which means he is kneeling on the ground before them, as servant. And he gives the four Beatitudes and the four woes that find darkness to him: Beatitudes for the poor, those hungry and weeping and for those rejected, hated and insulted and treated poorly, as he was treated. And woes for the wealthy, the secure and full, those efficient and others' needs and happy in their superiority and those who are despised and scorned and insulted in this world. There are only two ethical exhortations here.

Where do we stand? We know that our suffering reveals our sin. We find ourselves because of what we do and who we share our lives with. Jesus stands before us and throws us down to where he stands, humbly upon the ground.

Estrada a victim of double standard —Saguisag

By Nelson F. Flores

FORMER SEN. RENE Saguisag yesterday accused the administration of using a double standard of justice when it charged ex-President Joseph Estrada with perjury, while ignoring other similar cases, including that of then Vice President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo.

Saguisag said documents from the Ombudsman, the Executive Secretary, and the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas showed that, except for Estrada, no other person had been charged with perjury in violation of Republic Act 6713 concerning the filing of Statement of Asset, Liabilities and Net Worth.

RA 6713 is the Code of Conduct and Ethical Standards for Government Officials and Employees.

Saguisag said all those initially charged with violation of RA 6713 in connection with their filing of an incomplete or erroneous SALN were given a chance to correct their error as provided for by law.

GMA's case

He cited a case in 1998 when then Ombudsman Aniano Disierto dismissed a graft case filed by lawyer Ricardo Valmonte against Ms Arroyo. The case arose from the then vice president's alleged failure to declare her business interests and financial connections as well as real estate property in the United States, in her SALN for the years 1996 and 1997.

Saguisag said that, in dismissing the charges, the Ombudsman noted that Ms. Arroyo was not given a chance to correct the error in her SALN due to the failure of the Office of the Ombudsman to create a review and compliance committee as required by RA 6713.

"Why was then President Estrada charged with perjury emanating from a case similar to that of Ms Arroyo's when it was clearly established that the Ombudsman also failed to create the same committee to allow him to correct the errors in his SALN, if any?" Saguisag asked.

Saguisag also cited documents signed by Executive Secretary Eduardo Ermita dismissing similar cases involving national and local officials because there was no review and compliance committee.

Saguisag also noted that Estrada was the only person charged with illegal use of an alias as borne by a BSP certification dated Aug. 18, 2005.

But no less than BSP representative Cresenciano Orlas has testified in court that the alias law has not been implemented despite the passage of the Anti-Money Laundering Law, Saguisag said.

This shows that Estrada is being selectively prosecuted, he said.

Estrada, who is detained in his rest house in Tanay, Rizal, is also facing plunder charges.

FIVE YEARS AFTER he was arrested and accused of driving a stolen car, a former traffic management official of the Philippine National Police yesterday said he was finally vindicated and could now retire in peace.

Senior Supt. Norberto Manaog, who headed the PNP-Traffic Management Group in the mid-1990s, was accused by three police officers of driving a stolen vehicle in Las Piñas City in September 2000.

The PNP internal affairs office suspended for grave misconduct the three police officers who accused Manaog, records showed.

In July 2005, PNP chief Director General Arturo Lomibao affirmed the decision to suspend Senior Insp. Jesus Kabigting, PO3 Ernesto Orata and PO2 Dennis Fadol for six months, starting Aug. 16.

Salary deduction

The PNP legal service also recommended a deduction of 180 days worth of salaries and allowances from the retirement benefits of Supt. Wilbur Naldo, the officers' then immediate officer.

Manaog said the three policemen, who were members of the PNP-Criminal Investigation and Detection Group at the time, stopped him on the Alabang-Zapote Road and brought him to a local police station, saying that he was driving a stolen car. He said he was with his family when he was arrested.

The officers also arrested for illegal possession of firearms SPO3 Edgardo Lerit, Manaog's driver.

During the investigation, the officers said that they were simply doing their job. They said they were dispatched to the area to look for a Tamaraw FX with a blinker, a violation of traffic rules. They found and stopped the vehicle, and claimed to have seen a handgun inside.

Lack of evidence

The officers said Manaog tried to interfere when they tried to arrest Lerit, so they arrested him for obstruction of justice. They also accused Manaog of car theft.

The fiscal's office and the National Police Commission later dropped the cases against Manaog and Lerit after the officers failed to produce evidence.

Humiliated by the experience, Manaog sued Kabigting, Orata and Fadol for grave misconduct. In August 2004, IAS Inspector General Alexis Canonizado found the three guilty and suspended them for 180 days without pay, an order that was later affirmed by Lomibao.

"I feel vindicated. Imagine the humiliation of being accused [of driving a stolen car] when I was a former chief of the PNP-TMG," he said.

"Now I can retire in peace," said Manaog.

Indonesia probes plane crash

A 174-passenger Boeing 747-400 aircraft, operated by Garuda Indonesia, crashed on a grassy field near the town of Merapi, about 100 km (60 miles) from Jakarta, on Sunday. The crash, which occurred at 06:00 local time, was the deadliest aviation disaster in Indonesia's history. The aircraft was on a flight from Singapore to Jakarta.

The crash site was located in a hilly area, and the aircraft was broken into several large pieces. The wreckage was scattered over an area of about 100 meters. The aircraft was carrying 174 passengers and 6 crew members.

The Indonesian government has launched a full-scale investigation into the crash. The National Transportation Safety Committee (NTSC) is leading the investigation. The committee is expected to release a final report within six months.

The crash has caused a major disruption in Garuda Indonesia's flight schedule. The airline has suspended all flights to and from Jakarta until further notice. Garuda Indonesia is also providing assistance to the families of the victims.

The crash has also caused a major disruption in the tourism industry. Many tourists who were planning to visit Indonesia have canceled their trips. The tourism industry is also suffering from a loss of confidence in the country's safety.

The crash has also caused a major disruption in the airline industry. Garuda Indonesia is the largest airline in Indonesia, and its suspension of flights has caused a major disruption in the country's air transport.

The crash has also caused a major disruption in the economy. Garuda Indonesia is a major employer in Indonesia, and its suspension of flights has caused a major disruption in the country's economy.
